Deep Longevity is to develop and provide the customized predictors of human biological age to the network of Healthy Hire, IMC and Peak 1 Wellness clinicians and to provide a training program in longevity medicine.

“The traditional approach to preventative medicine is focused on preventing disease by diagnosing the symptoms early or reducing the risks of disease. The AI-guided longevity medicine goes much further than that and is focusing on tracking the person’s rates of aging at many levels, identification of longevity bottlenecks, and utilizing the latest advances in science and technology to slow down or reverse biological and psychological aging. We are very happy to have Healthy Hire join the rapidly growing network of our research and clinical partners focused on providing customers with extra years of productive and happy life”, said Alex Zhavoronkov, Chief Longevity Officer of Deep Longevity Inc.
